Guidelines for Entering English Names Based on Passport

← Machine-Readable Zone

① This is your passport number.

② This is the name that will be officially registered on your foreign resident registration card.

※ To enter the name accurately, please refer to the Machine-Readable Zone (MRZ) at the bottom of the passport page shown above, which contains the "<" character. In the MRZ, both a single "<" and a double "<<" represent one space in the name field.

Example: HONG<<GIL<DONG → HONG GIL DONG HONG<<GILDONG → HONG GILDONG

③ This is your date of birth in a 6-digit format (YYMMDD).

※ Example: If your passport shows 700101, you should enter the date of birth as 1970.01.01.

[FAQ]

 "I get an error because my name is too long."

: It is best to enter your full name. However, if your name is too long to fit in the field, please refer to the MRZ at the bottom of your passport's personal data page. The first three letters in the MRZ indicate the country code (e.g., KOR, USA). Your surname and given names appear immediately after the country code. Please follow the MRZ sequence for the correct entry format.

 "My passport name contains symbols like a hyphen (-)."

: When entering your name, do not include the hyphen (-), comma (,), or any other symbols. Be careful not to use a comma (,) to separate your surname and given names. Enter only the alphabetical characters as they appear in the MRZ.

 "I am a German student and my name contains an umlaut (e.g., ü, ö, ä)."

: If your name includes an umlaut, please refer to the MRZ at the bottom of your passport. The umlaut is converted into the corresponding alphabet characters in the MRZ. Please enter your name exactly as it appears there.

 "The bottom of my passport (MRZ) is blank."

: While this format is not common today, it occasionally occurs with older passports, passports from certain countries, or passports issued by overseas diplomatic missions. If your MRZ is blank, please write your surname and given names in the order they appear on the main personal data page of your passport. If your full name exceeds the field limit, please enter as many characters as the system allows.
